SAVANNAH Georgia – Deliciously relaxing and lighthearted, the Azalea Inn is a laid-back Savannah bed and breakfast mansion offering vintage Savannah garden sensibilities, 19th century architecture (complete with soulful imperfections) and scrumptious, reinvented southern cuisine breakfast. A hidden garden courtyard pool, modern comforts and free off-street parking extend additional appeal.

Located in the Historic Landmark District of Savannah on brick-cobbled Huntingdon Street near Forsyth Park (Savannah's central park), the inn's atmosphere is one of relaxed, casual leisure. Ultimately, the allure to the daffodil-colored Queen Anne Italianate inn is its owner's fun 21st century, fun-loving personality, off-the-beaten path quiet neighborhood, colonial Savannah garden district heritage, imaginative "new southern" breakfasts, and eco-green thoughtfulness.

BedandBreakfast.com named the inn "Best in the South" in 2008. Frommer's guide calls the inn "especially appealing..." Azalea Inn and Gardens is featured in Essence magazine, American Airlines, Southern Homescapes, Atlanta Life, Savannah Garden Exposition (2008), Small Gardens magazine (2008), the prestigious Savannah Tour of Homes and Gardens (2006), Charlotte Magazine, Bed and Breakfast Inns of America and the Tampa Tribune (2008).

What's New

The eco-friendly inn features newly landscaped gardens with low-volume irrigation and the mansion features low volume water baths and is leading the Savannah community to recycle. The inn's staff will recommend and gladly make tour, excursion and dinner reservations. Appealing to cost-conscious newlyweds, the beautifully landscaped B&B is enjoying fresh appeal for its year-around colorful gardens as a venue for small elopement and intimate garden weddings.

Annual Events

Azalea Inn and Gardens actively supports and promotes multi-cultural festivals, and is an advocate to help fun child abuse prevention and animal rescue.

Meals

Guests enjoy reinvented "new Southern" cuisine in the unique dining parlor with original murals, on the veranda or poolside. A chef's-choice breakfast, finger desserts, afternoon hors d'oeuvres and boutique wines are included in lodging rates. Afternoon wine and hors d'oeuvres feature "Wine with Attitude"sm (wine and food pairings).

Brief History of the Inn

The Azalea Inn is a Queen Anne Italianate mansion (ca. 1889), one of 1100 buildings in the National Landmark Historic District of Savannah, Georgia. Built on settler garden lands of colonial Savannah, Georgia, the urban manor's handsome, "home-away-from-home" appeal also has connections to "Wall Street of the South" through its original owner, Captain Walter K. Coney. The competitive yachtsman, robust and beloved Coney played a significant role in the shaping of the philosophy of Savannah's 20th century. Transformed to a bed and breakfast in the 1990s, current owners, Teresa and Micheal ("Jake") Jacobson were enticed to historic Savannah, Georgia, while their son was a student at the Savannah College of Art and Design.
